"Election Day" would have passed off pleasantly enough but for some very "striking" constrations exhibited by Young America in the street at evening.

When returning after the adjournment to our rooms, a crowd of boys on the sidewalk, evidently some of them considerably stimulated by imbibing too large quantities of new cider or something else, were getting eager for a fight. After a few hurrid blows and falls, the combatants were separated and marched off in different directions, swearing big oaths, smid the encouraging congratulations of their comrades, only to resseemble and commence anew the strife on the pavement, just in front of the old bank, one | made by President Johnson, on the 10th of the window-shutters of which was dislodged inst., to the colored soldiers of the District by a blow from the head of a falling fighter .- of Columbia : Another blow producing a bloody nose, was the Another blow producing a transfer sev-signal for a general engagement, and after sev-first parade in this city in 1862, received quite eral passes, they grappled and fell in the midst of a very excited crowd of men and boys, some being enthusiastically applauded both by perrushing up, shouting and cursing on the very tip-toe of intensest, eager expectation. The crowd swayed to and tro, surging right and left, some battles and a number of skirmishes, and its tatclimbing on wagons to witness the scene, until, tered flag bore indisputable evidence of the noat last, the parties more immediately engaged seemingly feeling that they were gratifying too numerous a party for small pay, separated, then in a speech of half an hour. No one seemed disposed ed them for the compliment paid by the visit, to take any more notice of this flagrant breach and told them that the country for which they of the peace, than if a parcel of cats and dogs had so nobly fought belonged to them as much had chanced to get by the ears.

GEN. SLOCUM AND HIS FORMER PARTY.-In 1861 Gen. Slocum wrote a letter, of which the following is an extract:

If I were at home, I should most cordially join with you in support of the Republican State and county tickets, for I have yet to lears what good reason ony Republican can have for deserting either his principles or his party.

Now, with no reason save desire for "the loaves and fishes," Gen. S. has deserted his principles and his party, and will find that he has sold himself for naught.

The Court (Judge Smalley) in charging the Jury pronounced this clause unconstitutional, being in the opinion of the Court, a palpable violation of the F fth Article of the Amendments which provides that no person shall be deprived which provides that no person shall be uprived of life liberty and property without due process of law. Consequently the plea that the defen-dant was acting in pursuance of orders from the general government in accordance with this law of Congress could not be sustained. One of the boldest burglaries on record was perpetrated in Georgetown, Va., early last Friday morning. The office of Adams Express Company was entered by profession-al burglars, the door of the safe drilled into and then blow off its hinges and into a dozen pieces, the concussion shattering the glass of the three large front windows into a thousand fragments, and waking up the people of the neighborhood; but before people or police got on the ground the burglars were off with a booty of four thousand dollars. During all these operations the gas was brightly burning. The sale stood but six feet from the window, which could be looked into by any passer-by. turn as citizens to the walks of civilized life, he So much for the police regulations of the Cap-ital. Doubtless the good people of the town appeared to him the duties in which they should engage, and the rules of conduct which should regulate their life. Many, he said, talk about equality before the law, and all that, but when one man is more meritorious than another, what becomes of this equality? The most meritorious is superior. He then endeavored to inculcate upon them the paramount duty of de-veloping and improving their talents and all the moral qualities, assuring them that a just public judgment would mete to all a reward of merit without regard to color. This he did again and again in the course of his speech. This, he said, is a government founded not only upon freedom, but equality, without reference to color. But liberty did not mean freedom to idleness, to worthlessness or to loafing, but to work and ensyment of the profit of the products of our own He shrewdly and somewhat carefully avoided all direct reference to the great question of manhood and suffrage now agitating the nation, but told them that the country was under the operator of a great and exciting experiment, to determine whether the whites and blacks, with the respective prejudices of the two races, could be incorporated or a similated in one harnonious unit as a common body politic, or whether it would be necessary for the two to separate. He hoped that separation would not be necessary, but told them that it was with themselves to determine the problem. They must by their own conduct upon returning to the pursuits of peace, by abandoning all habits of idleness and immorality, by a steady application to labor, and by a development of their intellect-ual and moral qualities, prove themselves as meritorius citizens as soldiers, as capable of self-government, and worthy of being entrusted with the higher duties of citizenshap. He concluded by again thanking them for the compliment of the visit, saying that he had talked plainly, but not with the object in any sense of wounding even their most delicate sensibilities, but with a purpose of inciting and encouraging them to a se of conduct that would elevate them in the judgment of the world. During the delivery of the speech there was no enthusiasm manifested by the soldiers or their olored friends. All the applause emanated from the whites who were present. One incident attracted our attention: When the President remarked that liberty consisted in freedom to work and to enjoy the profits of one's labor, a sergeant among the colored soldiers mmediately in his front exclaimed: "Thank God, it means that Another breeder remarked to us that the Ne-grettis were so much improved that the wool was entirely too fine, and that they were now doing all they could to introduce the Rambouillets, or French Merinos, not because they believed the Rambouillets were better, not even as good as the Negrettis, but that the cross between the two would, in the course of time, produce the right kind of wool. There were very few Electorals on exhibition. The Electorals, as far as I can learn here, are about equivalent to our Saxonys; they have a short but very fine fleece. Many of the Negrettis, so called, which were on exhibition, had more or less of the Electoral blood in them. No breeder here seems to know much about the Paulans, or Infantados, A thorough-bred Negretti is a singular looking animal; there is no portion of the body free from tolds; wool down the forehead and over the face, wool down the legs to the hoof. Those on exhibition were fine and compactly built animals.

Mesers. Sern W. Fowner & Co.

Gentlemen: —I counsider it a duty which I owe tosuffering humanity to bear testimony to the virtues of Da. Wisran's Balsan of Will. "BRIDE. I have used it for Coughs. Colds or Sore Throat for many years, and never, in a single instance, has it failed to relieve and cure me. I have frequently been very hourse on Saturday, and looked forward to the delivery of two sermons on the following day with sad misgivings, but by a liberal use of the Balsan my hourseness has in variably been removed and I have preached without difficulty.

I commend it to my brethren in the ministry and o public speakers generally, as a certain remedy or the bronchial troubles to which we are peculiar-Entirely unsolicited I send you this testimental, which you are at liberty to use in any way you choose. Perhaps the Balsam does not effect all persons alike, but it always removes my ho arseness and fits me for the minister's hard working day, the Sabbath.

Very truly yours, PRANCIS LOBDELL. CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SIGNE #. and all those whose occupation requirs an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the Owar REMENY which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.—This Remedy, unlike most PLEASANT TO TASTE. I am a resident of Curracoa, and have often been disposed to write to you concerning the real value of your Series Aperical as a remedy for Indigestion and Dyspepsia. I desire to express to you my sincer of particular for the great benefit the Series has done my wife.

For four or five years my wife has been sadly afficied with Dyspepsia, and after being under the treatment of several Dectors for two or three years, she was finally induced to seek the advice of a sarm sel Physician. Doctor Cabballis of Venezuela, who immediately treated her with your Effercement selver Aperical, she began to improve at once, and is now FERFECTLY WELL.

I feel it to be my duty for the good of humanity o make this statement, feeling that a medicine sevaluable should be widely known.

Trusting that you will give this publicity, and repeating my earnest gratitude and thanks,

I am very respectfully yours.

I am very respectfully yours, S. D. C. Hawniques, Merchant, Curacea, S. A.

The Peruvian Syrup is one of the few advertised medicines which is worthy of notice, and a personal trial of it for many years has shown us that it possesses all the qualities clatined by its proprietors. As is tonic in cases of impaired health or weakened constitutions it has no superior. Unlike most Tonics and Bitters it is entirely free from alcohol and therefore its emergining effects are not followed by corresponding reaction. It will be found far superior to wine or brandy in all cases where these have been prescribed for weakness and debility. The certificates of Dr. Hayes, State Assayer of Mass., and of Dr. Chilton, the celebrated Chemist of New York, agree that there is in its composition us mineral or vegstable poison, or objectionable substance whatever. Its principal ingredient is a sait of the Protoxide of Iron, so combined antenist tected as to form a durable and palatable medisition. We can most unlies takingly recommend it to nable We can most unlies tatingly recommend it to us the weak, the worn, and the weary. We make the remarks voluntarily and of our own prompting having richly experienced its benefits." Thousands have been channed by the use of this edy, from weak, miserable creatures, to sthealthy and happy men and nomen, and Invalids creasurably hesitate to give it a trial. Pamphlets containing certificates of cures, and recommendations from some of the most eminent Physicians, Clergymen, and others, will be sent FREE to any address.
